WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(P)—A definite threat that the nation's largest city would produce its own electricity was the latest step today in the administration's campaign for campaign to rid Georgia of the screwated more cheaply than private concerns.

Mayor LaGuardia, after his talk with the president, was asked whether it had been definitely decided that a municipal plant would be built. He replied:

"I believe the action of the utility companies in New York city in applying for higher rates today will do them no good."

Another inquiry as to whether the plant would be built if the private companies cut their rates brought the reply:

Governor-elect Graves, at whose request Governor B. M. Miller, of Alabama, called the conference on freight. rates and the "bootlegging" of cigarets through interstate commerce, set forth his plans as follows:

The executives asked a balanced budget, but recognized the difficulty, and urged reduction of relief expenditures to make balancing easier.

The leaders had agreed earlier that the "dole" form of unemployment relief was the best means of taking care of the jobless until they could be absorbed by industry.

Competition Opposed.

On the question of government competition, the report declared that "programs for work relief do not justify the government entering into competition with its private citizens in the production of goods and their distribution for relief purposes."

two children, was hanged today at Hull prison.

A black flag was hoisted over the penitentiary when she went to her death, the first woman to be executed in England in eight years. Until the end she maintained she was innocent of the charge of murdering her husband by poison.

Three hundred curious persons idly milled about outside the prison as she mounted the gallows. The trap was sprung at 9 a.m. (4 a.m. eastern siandard time). Two grim faced policemen paced back and forth keeping the crowd on the move.

Final urgent appeals for clemency by Lord Mayor Stark, of Hull, the last addressed to Buckingham palace, were fruitless. The appeal to the king and queen was turned over to the home secretary's office, which replied tersely, "the decision of the home secretary is already known."

Interest in her case except the lord major's home was in the little village of Kirby-on-Bain, where a 15-year-old son, a 9-year-old daughter and her aged father live.

TOGETHER FOR RECOVERY

"The time is ripe for an alliance of all forces intent upon the business of recovery. In such an alliance will be found business and banking, agriculture and industry, and labor and capital."

> From President Roosevelt's recent address to American Bankers Association

Enthusiastically we pledge the President and our fellow citizens our continued cooperation with all forces intent upon the business of recovery.

This institution has embraced each opportunity to join in all administration recovery movements and we again assure business men that they may make their plans with the knowledge that we are ready to furnish credit for sound enterprises.

REPORT OF BUSINESS CONFERENCE FOR RECOVER

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Dec. 19.—(AP)—The full report of the "Joint Conference or Business Recovery" follows:

In making this survey, the conference has been actuated solely by the desire to direct attention to the difficulties business has encountered in the path of recovery and the conditions of which it necessarily must take cognizance. It has done this with the full realization that the task is one which calls for unselfish cooperation of all and that the government, in exercising the proper responsibilities of leadership, is entitled to their whole-hearted support. It has, therefore, approached its task with the conviction that patience and tolerance are requisite to the reconciliation of divergent views and the concentration of national effort upon the one great purpose—the revival of the normal processes of industry and trade.

more pressing. There is ample work to be done to require the employment of all the labor now idle and the of all the labor now idle and the use of all the capital that may be available. The accumulating unsatis fied requirements of the American people will test the resourcefulness of our industry for years to come. With this goal so clearly before ns, it is inconceivable that a way will not be found to release our halting national energies and bend our efforts to its achievement. This being true, the conference called jointly by the Chambers of Commerce of the United States and the National Association of Manufacturers, submits the following consideration as expressing the concensus of those participating as to certain steps that may be taken to revive industry and accelerate recovery.

Relief of distress caused by unemployment is one of the foremost problems confronting the nation. Management, employes and all other social groups share in the responsibility of solving this relief problem and in obtaining the re-employment in productive enterprises of those now idle.

The conference is of the opinion hat this end can be achieved to the common advantage of industry, agriulture and labor and to the benefit of the nation as a whole. The need or goods and equipment of every excription necessary to the continuance of our sconomic progress and he maintenance of those high standards of living to which America has ecome accustomed is daily growing ciples should guide the granting of relief:

(1)—Relief is not properly a function of the federal government but is primarily the obligation of the family, or private charity, of the municipality and of the state. The federal government should aid only when absolutely necessary. An unwilling ness on the part of the states and municipalities to share in relief aid is manifest. A constructive step is overcoming this reluctance would be to return to the states as soon as practicable the burden of relief.

(2)—Relief should be administered by agencies with sympathetic co-operation of civic-minded citizens, conversant with local conditions.

(3)—All forms of relief should be under local centralized control and should, where practicable, be granted in connection with properly organised employment exchanges which will first endeavor to supply work in private industry.

(4)—The balancing of the federal budget will provide confidence, stimulate private initiative and increase opportunities for private employment. The creation of public works for the purpose of providing relief invites waste and definitely defers a balanced budget. In those projects to which the government is already committed, the wage rate paid for work relief should always be substantially less than the going rate paid for similar work in private industries, thus supplying a definite incentive to engage in private employment. Direct relief payments in any locality should always be materially lower than rates paid for work relief.

(5)—For those out of work employment on useful public construction projects not created primarily for the purpose of relief and at wages not in excess of the direct relief asyments which they would otherwise not in excess of the direct relief payments which they would otherwise receive should be encouraged in order that long continued idleness with its unfortunate effects, both physically and morally, may wherever possible avoided.

UNEMPLOYMENT RESERVES-UNEMPLOYMENT RESERVES—
We urge a thorough and sympathetic business study of unemployment reserves, with a view to developing the best and most feasible means solving this problem. A sound solution must be based upon a definite knowledge and not merely upon a commendable desire. Unsound legislation at this time would prejudice the possibility of securing a satisfactory solution in the future.

We lick sufficient knowledge re-

We lack sufficient knowledge re garding depressional, seasonal, tech nological and other types of unem-ployment. Even as to the actual ex-ployment. Even as to the actual extent of unemployment, the information is contradictory.

No plan of unemployment reserves can be of immediate help in relieving the present problem, inasmuch as there must be a considerable period for the accumulation of reserves. There is, therefore, ample time for thorough investigation.

In order to give consideration to all elements involved, a committee should be created by business to study the practicability of a comprehensive program of social security adaptable to American conditions, giving immediate attention to unemployment reserves and old age pensions.

INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS—
Efficient management has always recognized that it was and is good business to adopt such policies as would bring about a condition of mutual confidence and co-operation between the working organization and the supervisors force. Satisfactory employe and employer relationships require the maintenance of safe and proper working conditions and a wage schedule which compensates the workers fairly. Labor cannot share what is not produced. Arbitrary determination and limitation of hours and wages as proposed in such measures as 30-hour bills ignore this fundamental principle. Such limitations decrease the opportunity for employment by unnecessarily increasing the cost of the consumer.

The federal government should not assume or attempt to control local relationships between employes and employers.

Employers and employes should be free to bargain collectively or individually, in such forms as are mutually satisfactory to them without coercion from any source.

There should be no attempt to lessen, through legislative restrictions noon particular kinds of organization, the freedom of employes in determining the form of any organization for the purpose of collective bargaining.

Men should be protected in their tion for rise purpose of collective bargaining.

Men should be protected in their right to work as well as in their right to strike. They should also be protected in their right to join or to refrain from joining any labor or earliestion.

refrain from joining any labor organization.

The test of what is in the public interest should apply to the acts of employes as well as of employers. We believe that sympathetic or general strikes or walkouts, blacklists and boycotts should be prohibited.

FEDERAL FINANCE—

Definite evidence of a determined effort by congress and the administration to balance the budget, including both ordinary and emergency expenditures, at the earliest possible date is fundamental to any real or lasting improvement in economic conditions. Budget equilibrium should be attained primarily by limitation of expenditures rather than by increased expenditures rather than by increase expenditures rather than by increased taxation.

The best information available indicates that further increase in the public debt beyond June 30, 1935, can be avoided, a reasonable program of emergency relief expenditures can be financed without debt increase in the fiscal year 1936, by confining unemployment relief to an indispensable minimum and limiting expenditures for all emergency activities next year, including those on account of existing commitments for public works, to the expected surplus of receipts over ordinary expenditures plus the net repayments from various lending agencies and a reduction of the unallocated amount of the general fund balance.

The assurance throughout next the general fund halance.

The assurance throughout next year that will result from an avoidance of increasing the debt and from the adoption of an immediate program to produce a balanced budget in 1937 will contribute both to business recovery and to increase in federal revenue. It will allay fears of currency inflation, permit more refunding of government debt on a long-term basis, release investment funds for normal enterprise, safeguard the government's credit position, and induce a greater mobility of private resources and energy.

Projects for government spending initiated to increase purchasing power or to create business would retard rather than aid recovery.

That is true of all proposals for extraordinary expenditures that would mean debt increase after June 30 next or preclude the success of a definite program to produce an early balance of the budget.

BUSINESS FINANCING.

Understandings with important commercial nations to achieve stabilization of external exchanges, and definite action by our government as soon as practicable to establish a standard dollar with a fixed and unvarying gold content will be of immeasurable benefit to business.

It is of the greatest importance to business that the banks in which its deposits are placed be privately owned and managed under the supervision of existing agencies properly co-ordinated and consolidated, and that the control of primary and reserve credit be independent of governmental domination and political influence.

Issuance of securities are being deterred by uncertanties attribute to the regulatory acts (securities act and securities exchange commission. Encouragement has been given by the evident disposition of that commission to consider the practical problems of business in relation to the administration of these acts. Notwithstanding the helpful attitude of the commission, our judgment is that the resumption and expansion of private enterprise will be aided by modification of the securities act.

While the securities exchange act is being administered with consideration of the legitimate requirements of issue contains provisions which can of the securities act. Industry needs intermediate credit for capital purposes in small and medium amounts, maturing in not more than seven years. Credits of this type should be made available from private sources, if such regulatory measures as the securities act, which preclude the establishment of private facilities to handle business of this character, were properly modified.

Another substantial aid to the spaning of the capital markets to the needs of business would be to grant to member hanks of the reserve system under license to be issued by the federal reserve board, the right to engage in underwriting of the British type, while continuing the prohibition upon these banks to engage in the public distribution of securities by solicitation of purchases. Limitations upon the amount of an issue which may be purchased by any bank should be based solely upon a percentage of the bank's capital and surplus.

This conference affirms its belief centage of the bank's capital and surplus.

This conference affirms its belief in the economic unity of agriculture and industry.

One of the major factors which brought about the depression was a maladjustment between agriculture and other industries.

Any arbitrary limitations or undue restrictions of production, processing or distribution should be guarded against and prevented for the mutual benefit of all concerned.

Specific control measures should be undertaken only with the separate assent of a strongly predominant percentage by numbers and volume of the respective group or groups primarily involved.

There should be co-ordination of the activities of all federal departments to promote co-operation with the states, and counties and land owners in the solution of their land-utilization problems. The federal government and the states, in co-operation with private owners, should develop a program for removing from agricultural use as much as is feasible of the land on which the production of crops is ordinarily unprofitable and for discouraging the expansion of agricultural land beyond the effective demand for the production therefrom.

Federal acquisition and administration of submarginal land and administration of erosion-control projects and the grazing or other agricultural activities of the public domain, should be centralized in the United States department of agriculture.

DURABLE GOODS INDUSTRIES. Sixty per cent of the estimated 10,000,000 unemployed are in the durable goods industries. More than 2,000,000 are unemployed in one segment alone—construction—representing a total nearly four times as large as the combined unemployment in all consumers' goods industries. Deferred demand for the products of the durable goods industries has reached staggering proportions, but must remain potential and useless rather than effective until the people of this country possess such confidence in their future that they dare look beyond their day-to-day needs. Herein lies a major offensive against depression.

Chief among the fundamental conditions needed for recovery in the durable goods industries are (1) a free flow of private capital into private business, (2) a sound real estate mortgage market, (3) low construction costs necessitating removal of artificial restraints curtailing volume and increasing costs whether of maintenant increasing costs where the costs where the costs where the costs w and increasing costs whether of matterial or labor.

In particular, there can be no recovery in private residential building unless federal construction is limited to a field that can be demonstrated to the non-competitive-slum clearance and the limited construction of such low-cost housing as could not be accomplished commercially under normal conditions. This is the maximum limit to federal activities, if recovery is to be achieved. Direct government participation in housing, if carried beyond this point, will inevitably ruin the sound program of the federal housing administration. If that program is ruined by the direct and competitive insertion or coordinate branches of the government is the contraction of the government is the three can be not sufficient to the contraction of the government is the three can be not coordinate branches of the government is the three can be not considered. direct and competitive insertion or co-ordinate branches of the govern-ment into the construction field, a general level of construction setivity higher than that of 1934 cannot be expected, higher than that of 1934 cannot be expected.

GOVERNMENT COMPETITION—

The great majority of the people owns American business. Each of the 60-odd million insurance policyholders, each man or woman who has savings in banks or building loan associations, each holder of a share of stock or a bond, has such savings invested in some corporate business activity. In addition, there are nearly 3,000,000 partnerships and industrial undertakings. When government federal, state or local—enters a business, it competes unfairly with the great mass of its own citizens. The small business and the industrial of small means are the first to suffer. The federal government is now competing in more than two hundred (200) different kinds of business. Programs for work-relief do not justify the government's entering into competition with its private citizens in the production of goods and their distribution for relief purposes. Government competition with private business leads towards socialism. This destructive competition, carrying with it the threat of extension pulsory support of his government through taxation into a weapon for his injury.

FOREIGN TRADE—

Complete business recovery demands the expansion of American foreign trade.

Among the principal obstacles now impeding such expansion are: Instability of world correncies, quotas and bounties; exchange restrictions, discriminatory agreements. intergovernmental debts, and increased domestic costs. The conference favora:

1—Establishment, as soon as possible, of stable world monetary standards, with a prompt reconsideration of governmental debts due the United States.

2—Co-operation with foreign nations to remove quotas, exchange restrictions and export bounties.

3—Negotiation of reciprocal trade agreements with foreign countries under conditions which will safeguard American industry.

4—Recognition of the fact that increase of domestic production costs lessens ability to compete in foreign markets.

5—Co-operation with efforts of the export-import bapks and restoration of adequate governmental trade representation abroad.

The continuing improvement of

TRANSPORTATION—
The continuing improvement of our systems of transportation is conducive to economic recovery and essential to the promotion of community prosperity. We are now entering a period of more rapid change and development in transportation than has existed during the past two decades. The potential purchasing power involved in modernization of equipment and the utilization of already known technical development would materially contribute to the restoration of employment in the durable goods industry.

The achievement of maximum efficiency demands freedom for development in each field of transporta-opment in each field of transportation. To the extent that federal funds are available for loans, it would seem prudent to make loans to national and local common carriers, where financially justified, on terms as reasonable as those made for other purposes. Such loans can be made with greater security in already developed and sound enterprises such as transportation, with competent organizations to direct them, than to untried enterprises.

NIRA INTRODUCTION.

By its own terms the national industrial recovery act expires not later than June 16, 1935. The administration has indicated its desire for further trial of certain features of the act. Experience has not sufficiently determined whether permanent measures are desirable, or if desirable, the form that they should take. In view of these considerations, this conference recommends that new emergency legislation, prior to its expiring date be enacted for a period of one year in conformity with the principles hereafter presented.

Such legislation abould be administered by an administrative agency of at least five members possessing the authority to approve or disapprove codes of fair competition in or affecting interstate commerce that has been voluntarily submitted by an association or group truly representative of a given trade or industry.

LABOR PROVISIONS. NIRA INTRODUCTION.

ABOR PROVISIONS.

The NIRA was a temporary mean

The NIRA was a temporary measure designed to meet a national emergency, and it is recognised that its expiration would entail hardship in certain industries, the operations of which are being temporarily conducted under its provisions. In view of this fact, and without prejudice to the opposition of industry to federal legislation in the field of local labor relations, this new emergency legislation should follow the NIRA upon its expiring date, such legisla-upon its expiring date, such legisla-tion to conform to the following prin-ciples:

1. Any new legislation continuing the NIRA, should be of the same temporary emergency character as the original act, and one year is rec-ommended as the term of any such the original act, and one year is recommended as the term of any such law.

2. The continuance of present codes or the adoption of new codes should be conditioned upon the voluntary action of the respective industries or trades.

3. The new act should require every code of fair competition to contain suitable provisions concerning maximum hours and minimum wages, prohibiting child labor, safeguarding both labor and employer by giving to labor the right to deal with employers either individually or collectively directly or through representatives of their own free choice without intimidation or coercion of either party from any source.

4. During the emergency period the problems of child labor, of minimum wages, and of maximum hours are likely to be especially acute. In any industry, therefore, not operating under a code of fair competition in which 'the administrative agency finds that child labor is used or threatened or wages are so low, or hours so long as to impair materially our living standards, we appeal to employers in such an industry voluntarily to apply for a code in order to prevent or correct conditions which all responsible employers condemn. to prevent or correct condition which all responsible employers con which all responsible employers condemn.

COMPETITIVE PRACTICE.

It is recommended that the new legislation provide that any industry or trade voluntarily desiring to do so may, subject to the approval of a governmental administrative agency provided for in such legislation and public hearings, adopt and make effective a code of fair competition.

A main objective of codes of fair competition in this period of emergency has been and should be to aid in increasing employment, relieving pressure on wages, and in securing the restoration of the sound functioning of the competitive system of mitigating the effects of destructive competition agravated by the depression. It should be the objective of these codes thereby to aid in securing competitive conditions fair to producer, distributor, and consumer, the restoration of credit, the resumption of replacements and improvements in operating machinery, and relief from that instability in markets which retards coincident increase in production and consumption.

The standard to be set forth in Belongs in Your Medicine Cabinet tion.

The standard to be set forth in such legislation, which the administrative agency is to apply in passing on the provisions of a proposed code of fair competition, should be consistent with and should promote these objectives and, to that end, should facilitate the elimination of unsound and unfair methods of competition and, in proper cases in the public interest, should permit of practicable measures to reduce or prevent price demoralization, to secure reasonable adjustment of available

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

In some natural resource industries, conservation is a matter of great public concern and may require specific treatment. These industries should be able to utilize such provisions of general legislation as outlined herein; but since these provisions may not be sufficient to meet the needs of the industries and for the protection of the public interest, specific legislation should be considered to meet their requirements. Such legislation should follow the general principle that the farther the actions thus approved extend into fields otherwise restricted or prohibited by law, the greater the governmental supervision necessary to protect the public interest.

The development and the submission of codes of fair competition should be voluntary on the part of industry, and subject to the approval or disapproval of the administrative agency, with opportunities for submission to the same authority, for approval of modifications. The preparation and proposal of a code, in whole or in part, should be a sole responsibility of the petitioning industry.

In order to prevent confusion in the transition period between the nesses which are engaged in or affect interstate commerce.

The new act should provide for mandatory assessment of all members primarily engaged in an industry for financing code administration, subject to the approval of the administrative agency unless the industry has provided for a mild financing by voluntary methods. It is recognized that in other than the retail distributive and service fields, multiple assessments may be desirable and in such cases the general objective should be to limit further code assessments mandatory upon any person to those secondary or incidental lines in which he is a substantial factor in competition.

The effectiveness of codes depends upon the prompt enforcement of all provisions. Violations should, in the first instance, be adjusted, if possible, by the code authority with the aid, on proof of violation, of the administration agency, with ultimate resort to judicial process. The government in its purposes should not require compliance certificates of any kind nor discriminate against any person not determined by due proc-

The use, application or possession of NRA labels or other emblems devices should not be required as condition of the right to manufacture or sell commodities.

Under appropriate safeguards, a proved codes of fair competities should be binding upon all membe of the industry.

Should be a sole responsibility of the petitioning industry.

In order to prevent confusion in the transition period between the expiration of the national industrial recovery act and the adjustment of codes to the provisions of the new law, existing codes for industries so designed may continue in effect until terminated or amended.

The administrative agency should have the right to terminate, after public hearing, existing codes or those formulated under the new act. Industry through its representatives should also have the right to terminate such codes or propose amendments to them.

There should be opportunity for members of industry to enter into agreements between themselves, which agreements, when approved by the administrative agency, should be enforceable against all parties to the agreements.

As to actions in conformity and compliance with provisions of approved codes of fair competition or approved voluntary agreements, the new legislation should supersede any other statute with which it might otherwise conflict.

The new act, in its application, should extend only to those businesses which are engaged in or affect interstate commerce.

The new act should provide for mandatory assessment of all mem-

Beating of Hauptmann Claimed by Counsel

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Dec. 19 .-

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Dec. 19.—
(P)—Lloyd Fisher, associate defense counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, Lindbergh kidnap-slaying suspect, said today Hauptmann was severely beaten in the Greenwich Street police station, New York, when he was taken there after his arrest about three months ago.

Fisher referred to the alleged beating in stating, as Edward J. Reilly, of Brooklyn, chief defense counsel, did yesterday, that two federal agents, Thomas E. Sisk and Enos Sandberg, had been transferred from New York to the west to make them unavailable as defense witnesses. Sandberg said last night in Salt Lake City, Utah, he knew nothing of Haupt-Utah, he knew nothing of Haupt mann's having been beaten.

WASHINGTON. Dec. 19.—(P)—A survey of tremendous importance to the textile industry—that on wages and their relation to living costs—was reported by the labor department today nearing completion.

Dr Isadore Lubin, chief of the bureau of labor statistics, said he hoped the report might be furnished and made public by the end of next week. Both manufacturers and officials of the United Textile Workers are hopeful the labor department's wage report will support their respective contentions of the wage question, which with the stretch-out problem is the most controversial labor issue confronting the industry.

The new co-operative organization is supposed to keep the New Deal advised on what business needs from the government, that respect, it will probably work out very well.

TACTICS This new business spirit does not mean that the business organizations have changed their economic poli-cies and embraced Mr. Roosevelt's. The manufacturers started the move for the conference and they have a fixed program which does not libe with the New Deal. They want a balanced budget, dollar stabilization, no government competition with private industry, reduced relief, outlawing of sympathetic strikes, and abandonment of the majority rule of unions.

The change merely means they are going to try to get these things by co-operating with the New Deal rather than fighting it.

WHOOPING The New Deal is trying to whoop up the business advisory and planning council and make it the really representative and influential liaison agency.

Noth The keen sorrow and regret with which the people of Atlanta received the news of the sudden death Wednesday morning of Eugene R. He was, in many respects, Atlanta's most valuable citizen, and his death is a loss, either directly or indirectly, to every interest and to every person in the community. There has been no crisis in Atlanta's affairs for more than a quarter of a century in which the level-headed advice of "Gene" Black was not sought, and his has been the calm counsel on numerous occasions that has brought peace to aggravated and destructive controversies.

It should be easy for Georgia to avoid the pitfalls that other states have encountered, by profiting from the experience of the state governments that have perfected efficient and quick-functioning machines for the prevention of crime and the detection of criminals. A careful study should be made of these systems by the legislature in may be evolved for use in Georgia.

CHANGE WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—You could see a wholly different busines attitude toward the administration on the inside of that White Sulphur Springs meeting of industrial master minds.

Six months ago these same business leaders were tearing and snorting at the New Deal. But at this meeting they actually held up their program until they could get word from the White House that it would be acceptable.

RESULTS What the effort will amount to remains to be seen.

The real reason that the meeting was called was to create unity among the white shirts. The United States Chamber of Commerce was always saying business wanted one thing, while the National Association of Manufacturers frequently asserted it wanted something else.

The administration has often told business representatives privately that it could not do very much for business until business RIVALRY There was a lot of inside sparring at the start of the meeting between the chamber of commerce and the manufacturers' association. Both wanted to get control of the key The manufacturers' crowd is younger and more militant. The chamber group favored a liaison with the New Deal, all right, but it did not care to move as far or as eagerly as the manufacturers.

NOTES The census bureau has completed a survey showing that one-fourth of the factory wage earners of the country A total of 11,700 banks have signed up with the housing administration, but only 3,867 have actually made loans. The supreme court discovered only one error in the oil code, but there were two. The word "organize" was left out of the labor section, which took the heart out of it. The omission has now been Union leaders expressly were determined to press for the "majority rule," to which they considered they were entitled by law.

Leading employer interests in the industry, however, were described as "determined to preserve" what they contend is the right of any individual employe or any group of employes to bargain with employers, regardless of the organization chosen by the majority of the employes to represent them.

Mr. Roosevelt, at his press conference, nevertheless again expressed hope the industry and the union could see their way clear to accept the armistice proposed by the steel labor board. The terms of that truce were not disclosed.

STRANGE CHRISTMAS CUSTOMS.

the children hang a clay jar, cover In Mexico people exchange greetings on Christmas Day, but they usually spend the day quietly. Not quite two weeks later, on January 6, toys and other presents are given to children. Few Mexican boys and girls are taught to believe in Santa Claus, but they hear a legend that the gifts are brought to them by the Three Wise Men of the East.

We have seen that English children and gardy jar, is called. When it is broken, they scramble to obtain fruit and candies which fall from it. They have sweets and frolies before Christmas, even though they must wait until afterward for their gifts.

Mexico has a festival known as the "Posadas" which starts nine days before Christmas. In large part it is religious, and an altar is placed in the living room or parlor of each home where it is observed. The house is decorated with Spanish moss, evergreen branches and lanterns made of colored paper. After praying and singing songs, all persons present take part in a procession with lighted candles on the night of December 16. Then candies and fruits are passed around, and there is a display of fireworks out of doors.

We have seen that English children speak of both Father Christmas and Santa Claus. The name Santa Claus, which we commonly use, grew out of the Dutch way of pronouncing "Saint Nicholas." In Germany a time-honored name for the giver of gifts is Kriss Kringle; but many German children speak of "the Christmas Man." In Denmark, children speak of the "Yulemand"—that is the "Yule Man."

Danish folk have their main feast on Christmas Eve. As a rule, they eat goose or chicken, along with red cabbage and potatoes. They also serve a rice dish, and they eat the rice very carefully. In one or two portions, there will be an almond; and the person who finds an almond in his rice is given an extra present or prize.

After the Christmas Eve dinner, the people go into the room where a gayly decorated tree stands, with many presents below it. Before the presents are opened, all join hands to make a circle, and dance around the tree.

An old Danish custom at Christmas time is for children to place sheafs of wheat in places where the grain can be eaten by birds. This may be in a tree, or on the roof of a house.

Present Your Case Honestly,

"Present yourself and your case honestly" was the written heritage Governor Eugene R. Black left to those who will follow him.

In what is believed to be his last interview, written only a few days ago and published in the "Red Barrel" of the Coca-Cola Company, the governor of the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank who died Wednesday revehied his outlook on life.

The interview, filled with the philosophy and milk of human kindness, characteristic of Governor Black, was written by Ralph McGill, sports editor of The Constitution.

It was hardly possible to grasp it all, sitting there in the quiet office with the subdued noise outside, that here before me was a man who by the powers of his personality had helped create and establish one of the great new forces of a great nation; that here was a man upon whom the leaders of the nation depended for charting the course of intricate problems of finance.

We had gone over it briefly—
"Think honestly. Present yourself and your case honestly. Put all the cards on the table. . ."

It all seemed very simple then. And perhaps it is.
Somehow it all seems to get back to conscientious endeavor, a high purpose, honesty, integrity and those other solid old virtues which are never out-moded no matter how trite they may sound. may sound.

Wanted Banking Post.

One afternoon 12 or 15 years ago as he worked diligently with a client on an important legal matter he mused that he wished he was a banker because bankers got off work at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and lawyers had to work until all hours of the night.

A short time later he got his chance to become a banker when the Atlanta Trust Company directorate tendered him an offer to become president of its bank.

He accepted but he soon found that banking business was not ended when the day and that the hours in his offices at the bank were just as hard or harder than those he had spent in his law offices.

But Governor Black loved his work as well as he loved life and within a wished conduction of the first of the next will be a well as he loved life and within a will gold with a client on an important legal matter he got his chance to become a banker when the Atlanta Trust Company directorate tendered him an offer to become president of its bank.

59 Per Cent Gain Seen In Business of Bank THOMASVILLE, Ga., Dec. 19. (47)—Business is on the upgrade here. A report compiled by a local bank shows that from November 15 to December 15 of this year 59 per cent more deposits were received and checks paid by the bank than over a corresponding period last year.

one young negro woman, their teacher, read the lines of the play. They could not learn the lines because none of them could read.

Each woman had dressed herself in the costume she imagined suited the character portrayed. Thus "King Herod," appeared in an ancient maculine full-dress suit, on a rather obese nearo woman, and wearing an old-fashioned collapsible opera hat. With the staff of a broken umbrella for a scepter.

With the staff of a broken umbrella for a scepter.

The ass upon which Mary rode into Egypt became, to suit the negro mind, a mule, and was played by a woman in a man's suit with a mule-head mask upon her head. The devil was a negro woman arrayed in bright crimson coat and trousers, with horns and a spiked tail. Joseph wore an old bathrobe and used a cane, while the same woman "doubled," as Herod's army, by doffing the bathrobe and donning a Pullman porter's cap.

And so with the other characters. The pantomime was, of course, crude, but it was the natural crudity of a totally uneducated negro. Its very naturalness made it impressive in sincerity.

Peace Advocate Says Those

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 19.—Miss Jeanette Rankin, representative in Georgia of the National Council for Prevention of War, today emphatically denied charges of Kenneth Murrell, Atlanta Legionnaire, that she is connected with communist organizations.

Miss Rankin says if she alone were concerned, she would ignore the charges because she recognizes that "anyone who urges reduction of armaments, with its consequent decrease of profits for armament and munitions makers, must be prepared for the most bitter and unfair attacks by the tools, conscious or unconscious, of the interests that profit from war, and the sacrifice of human lives."

"I have long since become accustomed to such attacks," Miss Rankin said. "I have put every ounce of energy at my command into opposing the aim of the armament and munitions makers and I am not surprised that they should employe every weapon at their command, fair or unfair, to force me to cease my activities for peace.

"However, I recognize also, that the average person has no time to inquire that they should employe every weapnaturalness made it impressive in sincerity.

The singing, as always is by a group of negroes, was gorgeous. And the entire production was remindful of the ancient Greek theater, where scenes were merely indicated and a rod might be explained to portray an entire forest. The broken limb of a locust tree, for instance, was used by these Athens negroes to depict the locust grove where Mary stopped to eat while on her way to Bethlehem.

The "mule" also underwent a strange transformation when, in conversation with the Bethlehem innkeeper, it became "John the Baptist' and as such, told of conducting revivals in the mountains just as an itinerant negro preacher of today would talk.

Stanton Forbes, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Forbes, wrote the script of the play and directed the rehearsals. He is recreational director for the federal relief organization in Clarke county and was requested by the teacher of the negro women's illiteracy class to help the production.

The script is delightfully written, with full understanding of the negromind and psychology and displayed that instinctive feeling for the beautiful which produces true literature.

into these charges to determine whether they are true, or untrue. The persons who have attacked me understand that. If they can 'link,' as they term it, peace organizations whose objective, they say, is to overthrow existing governmental institutions they hope they can make it difficult for anyone to advocate measures designed to save us from another war which is certain to destroy civilization as we know it today. They make it difficult for ministers to advocate from the pulpit measures which would make concrete the teachings of Jesus himself. I am not unmindful of the concern that is aroused in the

FLOYD COUNTY TO USE FELONY PRISONERS

ROME, Ga., Dec. 19.—For the first time in three years Floyd county is preparing to use felony prisoners on a county chain gang project. Warden John A. Carlock brought back 19 felony prisoners from Atlanta Tuesday to be used on State Highway No. 20, where the county is grading and graveling a two-mile stretch under state highway contract.

A ruling of the state highway department requires counties to use 40 per cent felony prisoners in order to be eligible for state highway contracts. The 19 prisoners, all but one from Fulton county, will be used along with 47 misdemeanor prisoners from Floyd county on the construction project.

Big Saving! No Cooking!

Here's an old home remedy your mother knew, but, for real results, it is still the best thing ever known for severe coughs. Try ft once, and you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble at all. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed—a child could do it.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinez into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This Friendly Counsel By CAROLINE CHATFIELD Problems of seneral interest submit-ted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence lavited. Tour name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield : I can't remem ber the time when I haven't been doing without something I wanted and had worked hard to get, in order to supply some necessity for the family. First, my mother was ill and required a practical nurse, as we couldn't afford a trained nurse. My father's small carnings didn't even pay for this, so I had to use my salary for her illness. I didn't mind it as I loved my mother and was glad to do anything I could for her. After her death my father married again and nothing was available for the education of my younger sister and brother. So once gain I had to put off all the pleasures I had planned and help father with their education. It looks like I am born to trouble. My sister finished school last spring and has never found a job and my brother is now making $12 a week with no prospects for a raise. Must I go on forever this way putting everything I make, above my food and clothes, into the family pot? DISCOURAGED.

Answer: per the time when I haven't been do-For Miss Williams.

Answer: One feels no less than reverence One feels no less than reverence for such heroism as this young woman exhibits. Like every other young girl she wanted personal happiness and could have had it but for the family that hangs like a mill-stone around her neck. It is hard to fix blame on anyone. The father, whose deficiency kept him from getting on in the world, had no right to take a second wife when he couldn't support his children, but that same deficiency is probably responsible for his failure to see that he hadn't the right. The younger sister, never having earned a cent, hasn't any conception of the sacrifice her older sister must make to supply her wants. The brother is evidently doing his best yet his best is only enough to keep himself.

The tide can't forever go out. If the brother is industrious he will soon be earning more and if the younger sis-ter keeps trying she will surely find employment. In the meantime, there is lid satisfaction to be got out of sac solid satisfaction to be got out of sac-rifice when one can see the fruit of it. There are some who don't recognize obligation and go on as if it didn't exist. They couldn't endure to deny themselves for their families. But the conscientious person who sees her fam-ily in need and withholds her money in order to spend it on herself, can't buy peace of mind, no matter how she indulges herself.

There are some lonely ones who would gladly share-all they have for the comfort of knowing that there was someone dependent upon them. It is worth a lot to have a family even if they are a financial burden. Home, companionship, affection are not to be forgotten in this balancnot to be forgotten in this balancing of accounts. If a business woman does have to spend all her money, above her necessities, on her parents and sisters and brothers she has their gratitude and their love as a dividend. In this case, surely she has the hope that the younger ones will get on their feet and share the burden with her.

Save Me Some of This Weather, Pals, I'll Really Enjoy It

The plea is "Guilty as charged."

That is to the charge which a lot of the lads an gals have been making by saying, "You are a lucky so-and-so to escape all this weather by going to California and the Rose Bowl.

Yes, sir, guilty as as charged. But save some of this weather for me, pals. There will be sunshine at Pasadena, and on the lawn of the huge hotel there will be orange trees and lemon trees. And the manager gives carte blanche to step out there and pick an orange or a lemon. At any time. (The lady who is traveling with me pulled an old gag. "I picked my last lemon years ago," she said. There was something about that gag. I don't remember any lemon she picked. But the mem-

There will be flowers here and there, roses and petunias and poinsettias and the like. Rosemary and marigolds and so on.

But, save some of this weather for me, pals. I always like for it to be winter in the winter time and warm in summer. And I rather like to heave open the furnace door and toss the hungry old boy a few spoonfuls of his favorite food.

And there's something caressing about that wind which blows around the buildings in our town. Even if it does bite through the coat and make the toes ache.

And there's that dog of mine which howls when a ertain train passes every morning at 3 o'clock. I have to get up and ask that dog to be quiet every morning.

It should be a swell football game out there, this one which Alabama and Stanford are going to play with 85,000 people

But after a while the roses begin to look daffyblooming in December. And the oranges look phoney and the lemons look sour.

And I begin to think about this town of ours with the winds blowing and maybe a flurry of snow. So, save me some of this weather, pals. I'm coming back and pull my coat tighter against the wind, feed that furnace and get up to calm that dog. I like this town of ours. .

None of us knows just how good Alabama is. Tennessee was defeated by one touchdown in a game which saw the Crimson playing a slow, listless game. Tenout against L. S. U. Names of outstanding coaches in the east, north, south and southwest purportedly were under consideration by university authorities, but none has yet been definitely approached.

That the "Kingfish" is going after a mentor with a national reputation became apparent with reports that Clark Shaughnessy, who directs the football deatinies at Chicago University: "Chick" Meehan, head coach at Manhattan College, N. THE SPORT PARADE

-Baseball's Greatest Iron Man-

Something over nine years ago, early in the race of 1925, an ex-Columbia student by the name of Henry Lou Gehrig supplanted Wally Pipp at first base for the New York Yankees. In the course of more than 1,400 ball games, he has never missed a battle since, breaking all records by a wide margin. Overshadowed as a slugger for many years by Babe Ruth, he has come into his own at last as one of the main maulers of all time. Gehrig more than once has led his league at driving in runs. Last season he was the star slugger of both leagues at the age of 31. (Acme photos.) Copyright, 1934, by Grantland Rice.

Lynn Nelson, the popular right-handed pitcher of the Crackers, who was placed on the voluntarily retired list last summer because of ill health, has fully recovered at his home in Fargo, N. D., and is looking forward to a banner season next year with the Atlanta club.

This cheering information is contained in a letter from Nelson to Earl Mann, vice president of the Crackers, which arrived several days ago.

Abbott placed Nelson on the retired list around mid-summer after the game little right-hander continued to lose weight until he was down to around 150 pounds. Nelson had just undergone a serious mastoid operation prior to coming here and as he had seen little action with the Cubs, he had not had a chance to get his strength back.

Although he burled brilliant hall and had a chance to get his strength back.

Although he hurled brilliant ball at times, Nelson, an outstanding star in the Coast league and association for several years, never reached his peak with the Crackers and obviously was not himself. The hot weather also was a handicap.

If Nelson comes back in good health and strikes his stride next year, it will be a great boost to the Crackers' mound staff and a big help to Mana-ger Eddie Moore. Nelson is counted on by Moore as one of his aces to go with Jim Lindsey and "Berkeley Bill" Schmidt.

The Crackers obtained Schmidt last The Crackers obtained Schmidt last year on a recommendation from Mar-tin Tierney, one of Abbott's old ball-players who died recently, and the 19-year-old youngster turned in 17 vic-tories for the Crackers his first year in Calss A ball. He also is looked to for 20 wins next year.

Fred Perry's Performance Tops Tennis World for 1934

success by failure, today holds the dubious honor of ruling the amateur tennis world.

So completely did he dominate the amateur field in 1934 that the tew outstanding players who remained fled to the professional ranks, where at least they will be paid for their losses. Perry won the Wimbledon and United States singles championships, led the English Davis cup team to victory over the United States, and then went sailing to Australia to add to his supremacy there.

After the unsuccessful international battle of 1934, Uncle Sam placed his hope for the future in Lester Stoefen, a blond Goliath from Los Angeles, and George Lott, a temperamental stylist from Chicago, but the two turned professional after the close of the '34 campaign and left the 1935 struggle to Wilmer Allisen, Frank Shields, Sidney Wood, Frankie Parker, Donald Budge and Gene Mako.

TO THE LADIES!

It remained for the ladies to salvage what little international honor remained. Helen Jacobs and Sarah Palfrey did so ably. They led the United States team to its fourth straight victory in the Wightman cup series against England, and though they were buried in the British landslide at Wimbledon, they managed to eliminate the English threat on their way to the finals of the national women's singles championship, which Miss Jacobs won for the second consecutive time.

Miss Palfrey, who married Marshal Fabyan Jr., of Boston, in October, paired with Miss Jacobs to win our national women's doubles championship.

ALLISON OUTSTANDING.

Fred Perry, England's great tennis star, finds himself a the turn of the year with no more worlds to conquer. He led the English team to victory in the Davis cup matches, and won the Wimbledon and United States single championships. The only man to give him a serious battle in a major tournament all year was Wilmer Allison, who carried him to five sets before losing the final of the United States singles. Helen Jacobs led the United States Wightman cup team to victory, retained her national singles crown by defeating Miss Sarah Palfrey, and then paired with Miss Palfrey to win the national doubles.

Hal Drake Selected On Board of N. R. A.

Atlanta Rifle Club Executive Highly Honored by National Body at Annual Meet.

By Jack Troy. Mr. Hal Drake, the rapid-fire executive officer of the A. R. C., which, freely translated, is the Atlanta Rifle Club, no longer will be served meals in the kitchen when he comes home late.

Fact is, Mr. Drake may ask his household to stand at attention and bow as he enters the froat door. His lounging robe, slippers, pipe, et cetera, will be waiting. He can even have the easy chair every night. For such is befitting a member of the board of directors of the National Rifle Association—and particularly the first southern member of the N. R. A.

Well, maybe Hal Drake isn't the first southern member, considering that Thurman Randle, of Texas, is on the board.

FIRST FROM GEORGIA.

But at least he's the first from Georgia or any other southern state outside of Texas.

So there is really no need to elaborate on the honor that has been bestowed upon a man who is responsible, in large measure, for the recent expansion of rifle shooting in Georgia.

Officials of the N. R. A., national governing body of the sport of rifle shooting, thought so much of Mr. Drake's great work in behalf of the sport that they selected him for a three-year term at the 63rd annual meeting in Washington.

Mr. Drake, notified of his selection last night, was at a loss for words. This has happened only once before in Mr. Drake's life. That was when he was a baby and had not yet learned to talk.

GREAT CLUB.

The Atlanta Rifle Club, one of the greatest in the world despite a limited membership—Charley Hamby and Harry Paschal are world champions—is very proud of the honor that has been bestowed upon its Mr. Drake.

As an executive officer they simply addressed him as "Hal." They'll preface that with "Mister" from now on. In the letter notifying him of his selection, Mr. Drake was urged to attend the first board meeting at Washington on February 1.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(P)—The curb market lost a little ground today, and selling in utility shares was the major factor in the downward movement. Some scattered specialties displayed resistance. Trading was active.

From the start utilities were offered rather freely and finally selling spread to other sections on the market. As was the case with the power and light stocks on the big board, the selling appeared to have been inspired by the government's cool reception of proposals from utility quarters for co-operative effort toward an early judicial interpretation of the legality of the TVA, and threats of municiapl generation of power in New York for the city's own needs.

After stiffening around midday, the lower price drift was resumed and final quotations were generally around the low levels for the day.

Among less active stocks, Pan-American Airways and Singer Manufacturing lost 2 and 3 points, respectively. Aluminum Company of America was off nearly 2, while recessions of fractions to a point or so were recovered by American Gas & Electric, Electric Bond & Share common and preferred issues, National Power & Light preferred, Hiram Walker, Sherwin-Williams and United Shoe Machinery. Celanese first preferred was an outstanding firm spot, rising 3 1-4.

Transfers which approximated 239,000 shares, were about the same as yesterday. By BERNARD S. O'HARA.

DAUGHTER BUYS REYNOLDS ESTATE IN NORTH CAROLINA

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Dec. 19.—(P)—Mrs. Mary Reynolds Babcock, of New York, daughter of the late R. J. Reynolds, was disclosed today to have purchased Reynolda Estate, family home of the tobacco family.

The purchase was made from Reynolds, Inc., whose capital stock is held by the Safe Deposit and Trust Company, of Baltimore, trustee under the will of Mrs. Katherine Reynolds Johnston, mother of Mrs. Babcock. The price was not made known here. Besides the huge family home, the estate includes several thousand acres of farm lands, a golf course, an artificial lake with a hydro-electric power plant, a church, parsonage, schools, greenhouses, workshops, telephone exchange and cluster of homes for the refinue of employes.

Mrs. Babcock's younger brother, Smith Reynolds, was living at Reynolda with Libby Holman, Broadway star and his bride of a few months, when he was fatally shot on July 6, 1932.

MEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(4)—Cotton was quiet today and the price movement irregular within a compartively narrow range. There was further near month liquidation and switching into later months but general business was restricted and comparatively light offerings were absorbed by the trade. March contracts after selling off to 12.53 advanced to 12.58 in the late trading and closed at that figure with the general market steady, net unchanged to 8 points higher.

The circulation of a few December notices brought in some near month liquidation in early trading and combined with a little southern selling caused prices to ease in forencon trading with December selling down to 12.37 and May at 12.55.

Offerings then tapered off and prices steadied up later on covering and trade buying accompanied by reports of price fixing in some of the later deliveries.

The early declines were attributed theily to technical readjustments and the evening-up of near months, while the easier tone of the stock market may have been a contributing factor. Overnight reports from Washington were regarded as indicating little prospect for an immediate agreement on the German cotton barter plan, but attracted little comment, as an immediate market factor. Exports today 1.857, making 2.253,929 so far this season. Port receipts, 7,778. United States stocks, 3,118,317.

Daily Bond Averages.

By VICTOR EUBANK.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19 .- (A) -- Sec ground on the bond market today although prime investments held steady and governments were mostly higher Transfers aggregated $12,392,000 par value compared with $14,576,000 on Tuesday. The Standard Statistics Co. average of 60 domestic corporate bonds declined one-tenth of a point bonds declined one-tenth of a point to 86.0.

Many lower priced issues yielded a point or so along with carrier loans which extended their losses of the previous session about that much.

New Orleans Public Service 5s yielded 1 point to 54, New Haven 6s were 1 1-4 lower at 48 1-4 and Alleghany 5s lost 2 3-4 points at 22 1-8. Other losers included obligations of Baltimore & Ohio, International Telephone, Missouri-Kansas-Texas, Missouri Pacific, Rio Grande Western, Southern Railway, and Western Union.

The creeping upward movement in first grade bonds carried several issues into new 1934 high ground, including Santa Fe general 4s, up 1-4 at 107 1-4; Pennsylvania Gold 5s, up 1-4 at 105 3-4, and Virginia Electric Power 5s, up 5-8 at 105 3-4.

Kelly-Springfield 6s made an extreme gain of 8 1-4 points to 52. The company wais placed in receivership late yesterday, following prolonged disagreement between the management and some of the stockholders.

While trading fell off considerably in governments, most of the treasury issues and other obligations were a trifle higher.

There was little activity in the foreign section.

FURTHER GAIN SHOWN

IN ELECTRIC OUTPUT NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(A)—The electric power output last week totaled 1,767,418,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 1,743,427,000 the previous week, the Edison Electric Institute reported today.

The increase over a year ago was 7.5 per cent, compared with 7.7 the week before.

Regional gains from 1933 for last week were:

Regional gains from 1933 for last week were:

New England, 4.1 per cent, against a rise of 3.5 the week before; middle Atlantic, 6.2 against 5.2; central industrial, 8.3 against 7.0; west central, 5.1 against 6.2; southern states, 10.0 against 13.1; Rocky mountain, 11.1 against 13.2; Pacific coast, 5.4 against 3.2.

Consequently uitilities were sold, not heavily, but enough to bring losses up to 2 points—a fact which unsettled the entire market. Prices at the close were fractions to 3 points lower, trading volume was 920,000 shares and the Dow-Jones utility average was only 1-100 of a point above the year's low point, which in turn is the low since 1932.

Curiously Wall Street found an element almost unsatisfactory in the utility stocks situation. Many current holders of utility stocks, brokers reported, bought the shares around current levels for the long pull. Therefore they are not ready to dump their holdings, which should furnish cushion against any added discouragement that might come to the industry.

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Still gazing at her in wonder, the big gorilla replied slowly: "If you are not she, then she is down there with The Maker in his castle." He leaned over the cliff and pointed to a great stone castle on a ledge far below. Then Buckingham turned toward Naomi Madison as a new idea took form in his mind. For a full minute he contemplated the trembling girl's intriguing figure and beautiful face. Then he said men acingly: "If you are not she, The Maker has the other and I can have you!"

DAILY SHORT STORY-RUMMAGE SALE

Poverty Had Made the Young Couple Threadbar Had Not Destroyed Their Zest for Life.

It is a cold Saturday night, just supper time in Indiana, and the traffic on Main street ebbs like the beats of a dying man's heart. The swinging stoplights wink in dumb show and the store windows, as yet unlighted, look drab and uninteresting.

The blood in the cold sky has thinned to water and darkness settles like a moth-caten blanket, through which gleams the village lights.

At the corner of Main and Hancock streets, the knifelike wind drives the swirling snowflakes into the areaway of an empty store, dancing like veritable bails of soot. The dirty, cobwebed windows transmit but dimly the yellow lights from inside and a white card, pasted against the glass, Again the door swings in and the snow spits through the black opening spitefully. Here is a man who knows exactly what he wants. He is tall and thin and shaved within an inch of his life. He has no overcoat and his light gray summer trousers are too short and they do not match his coat.

his life. He has no overcoat and nist a light gray summer trousers are too short and they do not match his coat. But they are clean, acrupulously clean, and pressed. He carries a baby, bundled in a long, wool shawl. She is fat and sweet and laughing. His wife struggles with the door.

"Have you any sweaters, ma'am?"

"Have you any sweaters, ma'am?" the Old Guard of Georgia, will direct the grand march. General James H. Reeves (center), recently retired from the United States army, and Lieutenant Commander Jesse Draper (right), United States navy wife struggles with the door.

he asks pleasantly.

"The sweaters were all sold this morning, he is told.

The tall man laughs ruefully. "You told me, maw, that I should have come down this morning." And then, half apologetically, "I did need a sweater."

Proposal for Barter Basis Abroad Revised for Approval of F. D. R.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(#)— revised cotton barter proposal, uner which non-competitive German roducts would be substituted for nirates, was under contemplation today or submission to President Roosefor submission to President Roosevelt.

The originally projected barter transaction, involving an exchange of from 100,000 to 500,000 bales of cotton for synthetic nitrates and other German products, conflicted with the administration's reciprocal trade agreement expansion program. Today George N. Peek, president of the Export-Import bank, was at work drafting a new plan.

Mr. Roosevelt revealed today that Secretary Hull's report on the Peek plan—understood to be in opposition—was still on his desk, awaiting final decision. It is generally believed, however, that the president will not approve it in its present form.

While Peek redrafted the barter proposals, Secretary Hull, who contended it would interfere with negotiating trade pacts with 25 countries, announced that a new reciprocal trade agreement would be negotiated with Finland, beginning with hearings on February 11.

Finland, only nation to keep up its February 11. Finland, only nation to keep up its war-debt payments, will become the fourteenth nation with whom similar commercial pacts are now under nego-tiation. Ten or twelve other nations, including Chile, have already entered nto preliminary discussions concern into preliminary discussions concerning negotiations.

Synthetic nitrates were suggested by the German negotiators as one of the chief products to be exchanged in the cotton barter. Chile, a big nitrate producer, was understood to have made representations against including nitrates in the German deal.

There came today indications that the government also was making other preparations for an expanded foreign trade. Secretary Roper said the commerce department would ask congress to increase appropriations for the upbuilding of offices of the foreign commerce bureau in a number of countries.

the four boys' lawless tendencies; how, under his guidance, they grow to young manhood as likable, ambitious youngsters; how they enter college to play football on Howdy's team and how they become nationally famous as gridion stars—these incidents lend considerable interest to a romantic and picturesque story of college days.

Paramount Scores Again With "Behold My Wife"

With "Benold My Wife".

The Paramount theater has scored again in its pre-Christmas offering of "Behold My Wife," with Gene Raymond and Sylvia Sidney in the leading roles. Laura Hope Crews and another polished character actor, H. B. Warner, are commendably cast for supporting performances.

In addition to superb photography, deft direction and first-rate acting, qualities which have almost become the rule among pictures today, "Behold My Wife" tells an interestingly different story.

different story,

Miss Sidney is seen as a full-blooded Indian. Gene Raymond, millionaire playboy, is robbed of happiness by his socially prominent family and by his socially prominent family and marries the young Indian to disgrace them. Instead of creating a scandal, the naive girl captivates everyone. Raymond discovers he loves the girl just as she discovers his ruse. Her revenge, conceived with Indian cunning, and the subsequent reunion of the lovers lead to a most unexpected climax, one that should deeply touch young lovers and old ones too.

The background is luxurious and the atmosphere is aristocratic. Raymond makes himself easy to hate and demonstrates again that no man can be so thoroughly a cad as a cultured one. Miss Sidney seemed a little too fastidious for an Indian but gave an exquisite performance.—B. M.
